Sicilian Performance

In April 2016, Soprano Sharon Azrieli made her debut in the title role of La Gioconda with the New Jersey Verismo Opera and has proven to be an exciting new singer and performer. She will star in the lead soprano role of Nedda in 'I Pagliacci' in the breathtakingly beautiful town of Augusta in Sicily on August 12th.

The opera will be performed in the classical manner - in the piazza of the town, just as operas were conducted centuries ago. In addition to her performances, Sharon, who is fluent in five languages, is recording an album of French arias at Avatar Studios in New York City with Steven Mercurio conducting. The recording will be released later this year.

The busy Ms. Azrieli performed at Carnegie Hall last month and is also recording an album of Broadway songs in Montreal. Look for her recordings through your favorite music outlet and if you are in Sicily, especially if you are in Syracuse or Catania in August, make sure to catch her performance in Augusta, which is right on the coast of the Ionian Sea, between the two cities.
